THE VERSATILE ELECTRIC SKILLET

The electric skillet or frypan is a multifaceted kitchen helper. Depending on the size and style, it can be used in preparing a variety of dishes, from fried and roasted to baked and broiled. Casseroles are cooked, served, and reheated in the versatile unit. It even doubles as a corn popper! Bar cookies are delicious baked in a fry pan. Some can even be mixed and baked.

In many instances, an electric skillet is used as an oven substitute. It frees top burners for other uses and can be plugged in wherever there is an electric outlet.

Preparing, cooking and serving are possible right at a kitchen or dining room table.

Most popular are the easy-care characteristics of an electric fry pan. The majority of these applicances are made of aluminum, stainless steel or a combination of both. Features such as detachable legs, handles, thermostatic controls; nonstick interiors; and sudsable porcelain enamel exteriors make washing the appliance simpler than ever. Some are even dishwaster safe!

Some models offer additional characteristics that aid cooking. Included may be a baking and broiling rack, warming tray, fry basket and broiler lid. A tilt leg permits basting and draining of grease while cooking. A cover that locks at different angles serves as a spatter shield, and provides a place to rest the lid when adding ingredients or stirring food in the pan. A high-domed lid provides extra head room for large cuts of meat and other "tall orders." Sizes ranging from 7" X 10" to 11" X 16" offer capacities for every need!

It is wise to read the manufacturer's instructions for proper care and handling, before using a skillet for the first time. Your use-care manual is very important. Generally, if it is immersible, the skillet and cover should be washed in warm sudsy water to remove any manufacturing oils, before cooking in it. Rinse and dry. If the interior has a non-stick finish, it must be conditioned by wiping the surface lightly with salad oil on a paper towel. Let the residue remain on the finish.

Clean the appliance carefully after each use. Turn the temperature control to off, let the pan cool. Unplug the cord from the outlet first, then from the appliance. Do not immerse the temperature control in water - - wipe with a damp cloth and dry.

Wipe out excess grease and food particles from the pan with paper toweling. Fill the pan with hot sudsy water. Let it stand for a time to help loosen crusty particles. Empty and wash in a sinkful of clean suds.

Those with uncoated interiors may be scoured if needed. Avoid using metal scouring pads or abrasive cleaners on non-stick finishes. Wash with a sponge or nylon pad and hot suds instead. Follow the same procedure on porcelain enamel, polymide and polished exterior surfaces. A cover can be washed in a sinkful of suds.

Follow care instructions for special attachments, such as a broiler element, rack, tray, crockery insert. The underside of a skillet needs to be washed as well to remove grease buildup. Since this is a non-polished surface, it may be cleaned by scouring lightly.

Super Dollar Doubles Earnings

Super Dollar Stores, Inc., Raleigh, N.C. reported record - setting results for fiscal 1977, back-to-back with record 1976. Sales for its fiscal year ended January 29, 1977, were $26,412,000, up by $7,608,000 or 40% over fiscal 1976 sales of $18,804,000. Earnings for fiscal 1977 were $827,000, or $1.35 per share, more than doubling fiscal 1976 earnings of $413,000 or 65c a share. Leon M. Melvin, its president, attributed these sharp gains to the results of its expansion program and the first three-quarter rise in economic conditions.

During the past fiscal year, the company opened 24 additional stores and relocated 8. Most of the additional stores are in the revitalized coal-mining area of Virginia, West Virginian and southern Ohio.

Melvin also reported that since year end the company finalized a new $5,000,000 loan arrangement with North Carolina National Bank which included an unsecured $2,000,000 term loan and a $3,000,000 seasonal line of credit. Of the $2,000,000 term loan, $1,100,000 has been used for repayment of short-term loans and the remaining $900,000 is available for financing its new fiscal year expansion program of 15 to 20 stores.

At year-end the company operated 122 small discount-type variety stores in the Carolinas, Virginias and southern Ohio, mainly in small towns. Its stock is traded in the over-the-counter market.
